

Please consider the radio formatting phenomena that has swept across the nations radio stations. The music has been categorized with very little room for new artists to be played. I believe this is a very profitable way for a company to make money but the listener finds less and less diversity. The public then just settles for what ever they can find. I see this trend continuing with little room for future artists to be heard. My hope is to not allow a few to control so much. Thank you.
